Reports that the Mayor of London urged Londoners to show their “resilience, unity and defiance” a week on from the terror attacks at London Bridge and Borough Market. The Times reports that religious leaders were taking part in a “sunset walk” yesterday evening from St Paul’s Cathedral to the East London Mosque. The Bishop of Fulham, Jonathan Baker, was due to give a speech at the mosque and is quoted. The Sunday Times reports on how Southwark Cathedral, at the heart of Borough Market, is reopening in time for morning services today.
